How bad is the problem of Juvenile Fire Setting?

Each year New York experiences hundred of fires set by children that result in death, injuries, firefighter injuries, and millions of dollars in property loss. Less than 10% of fires started by juveniles are even reported. As reported in the Juvenile Firesetting Annual Report, more than 80 percent of children who set fires will do so again unless there is intervention.

According to the NYS Fire Prevention and Control: "Early intervention and treatment will prevent future criminal behavior and save countless injuries, lives and dollars of property loss." Most fires started by adolescents occur outside of their home. These fires include such things as dumpsters, grass, woods, school property, portable toilets, fireworks and bomb threats.

False alarms in schools and public buildings pulled by juveniles are not taken lightly by fire departments. A false alarm is endangering many lives. Twenty-five percent of fire-fighter deaths occur responding to or from calls.

The consequences for these actions include:

*Property Damage

*Burns

*Economic consequences for families and property owners.

*Criminal liability and prosecution.
